SECOND HARVEST HEARTLAND ANNOUNCES FIVE NEW BOARD MEMBERS

New members are health care, nonprofit, law and consulting leaders

BROOKLYN PARK, MN — Second Harvest Heartland announced today the addition of five new members to its board of directors. Each board member plays a critical role in helping Second Harvest Heartland fulfill its mission of ending hunger together. These new members join the 20 current members, forming a robust board with deep expertise in food, health, logistics, technology, community engagement and philanthropy.

Abhi Andley, President and Chief Executive Officer, Homeland Health Specialists

Morgan Helme, Partner, Dorsey & Whitney

Adair Mosley, Chief Executive Officer, African American Leadership Forum

Dominica Tallarico, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, Allina Health

Ari Tauer, Partner, Boston Consulting Group

Stacey Fowler Meittunen, Executive Vice President of Research & Development at Schwan's Company, steps in as new board chair. Jill Bollettieri, Senior Vice President, General Counsel & External Relations at Post Consumer Brands, is the new board vice chair. Josephine (Jodi) Bahl, Global Risk Management Deputy Leader at EY, is board treasurer. Sheilah Stewart, Senior Vice President and General Counsel at Land O' Lakes, is board secretary. As one of the nation's largest, most efficient, and most innovative hunger relief organizations, Second Harvest Heartland works to support those experiencing food insecurity in our region through partnerships, programs and policy. Last year, Second Harvest Heartland distributed more than 113 million meals across Minnesota and Western Wisconsin and is on track to deliver even more this year. The board is responsible for the governance of the organization, setting policies and overseeing strategic priorities.

“I am so honored to welcome these five leaders to our organization. The talent, expertise and commitment to the community they bring are exactly what we need as we reimagine how we contend with hunger,” said Allison O’Toole, CEO of Second Harvest Heartland. “Hunger rates in Minnesota are on the rise and our food shelf partners across the state are seeing record demand. We continue to do everything in our power to meet this moment, but we know it’s going to take a full community effort to end hunger. Our board of directors is integral to our work to bring the community together to permanently reduce hunger rates in Minnesota.”
